These journals are labeled as being those of Phebe Ann Buckingham. However, from an entry on July 19, 1858, I believe those up to that time were kept by someone else - at least in the 1850s^{1870s} by Lydia Annas. Changes took place in assignments at this time, with Elder Sister Maria Gilbert being "released" from that job, Lydia Annas taking her place to go and live with Eldress Betsy (Harrison, and Ann Buckingham to "go to the Office" and Matilda Wells taking her place which, apparently, was as cook for ministry when needed but otherwise to help with visitors at the Office.

At any rate, the handwriting in the journals is now decidedly different, the spelling deteriorates, the tenor of the notations changes. And Ann now refers to herself, "I", specifically, as doing something.
